To Have a Chapel.

It is expected that within a short time work will be begun on the new city morgue. The specifications have not yet been made, but the lans for the new building were submitted to the Commissioners of Charities on Wednesday, and provisionally approved by them. The new morgue will be built on piles in the East River, at the foot of Iwenty-sixth street. The exact position is not yet determined. It will be raised to a considerable height above the river so as to admit of a free draught of air under

The building l'self will be comparatively lofty. It will be surmounted by a dome, so arranged as to admit of a free current of air passing through.

Gen. O'Beirne, who is the Commissioner of Charities most interested in the subject, said to a reporter the other day:

"I am very anxious that this city should be supplied with a proper morgue. I think that we pay far too little attention to the housing of the friendless dead. The new morgue will be as perfect as modern science can make it, but it will not be a public show-tlace. When first considering the question, I had the Paris Morgue in my mind, out, when it was suggested that the methods adopted in Paris are such as to encourage morbid tastes among the people, I chansed my mind. We hope that the New York Morgue will be, so far as usefulness is concerned, vasilty superior to that in Paris. I cannot tell when it is likely to be finished, but the work will be hurried on as much as possible. The present Morgue's very imperfect in many ways."

There have been many complaints made of the physicians who have to operate is the present Morgue. The chief grievance is that it is not supplied with running water, what is used having to be brought in buckets from a distance. The other day Deputy Coroner O'Hanlon cut his finger when conducting a post-mortem examination. The case was one which rendered an accident of the kind extremely dangerous, but Dr. O'Hanlon had to wait for fully ten minutes before he could procure water in order to wash his hands.

SHOT DEAD IN HIS SALOON.

Sohlern Jostled a Disguised Man and Was Shot

CHICAGO, Ill., April 29.-Emil Sohlern, saloon keeper at 197 Wells street, was shot and almost instantly killed last night by one of three men who entered the saloon near midnight. Ten men were in the place at the time, but none of men were in the place at the time, but none of them made any effort to capture the murderers or offer resistance. Sohlern was shot through the head without a warniar. He was at one of the tables serving beer when the side door was opened and the assassin entered. The man wore a handkerchief around his neck, and as he walked toward the bar he pulled it up over the lower part of his face. The other two men entered by the front door and remained behind a screen near the door.

Sohlern spoke to the man at the bar and gave him a slight push. The man drewa revolver and fired, exclaiming:

"Take that, you dog."

Edward Brennan was arrested in a vacant building to-day and identified by a man in the saloon as the murderer. He had borrowed money from Sohlern.

MORE TOLL GATE RAIDERS.

Wistence in Mentucky and Indians-The Torol

LANCASTER, Ky., April 29.-One hundred masked men rode into the city at 9 o'clock and burned the toll gate keeper's bome on Buckeye street. They called for the keeper, and said they street. They called for the keeper, and said they would murder him, but he had taken his family to a neighbor's to spend the night. The house and every piece of clothing of the keeper's family were destroyed. A notice was left, written in red ink, warning the gate keeper that he would be murdered as surely as the pole was put up again.

News comes from Indiana that toll gate raiders have begun their depredations in the neighborhood of Fort Wayne. Last week the three gates acar that city were torn down, the keepers driven away from home, and two houses burned. The torch was also applied to another toll house in Bath county, Ky., last night, and the keeper moved his family to Ohio to-day to escape the vengeance of the raiders.

Steeple Jack's Hody Found.

NYACK, April 29 .- The body of Ralph Wayne, known as Steeple Jack, who was drowned off Nyack by the overturning of a sallboat on April 3, was found in the river about a mile from Plermont shore at 7 o'clock last night by Nathaniel Ward, a fisherman of that place. The body was entangled in a fishnet. Coroner Smith of West Nyack will hold an inquest next Wednesday. A paper was found on the body which showed that it was that of Raiph Wayne.
